

The Scoop

#42

from
The Saunders Brothers
Farm Market

We have a number of people who make certain that the Farm Market provides an enjoyable shopping experience for you, and Jeanne Scott is one of them. This is Jeanne's 4th year here, and she manages the 17 part-time employees, plus a gaggle of Saunders grandchildren who are learning the ropes.

One of the Farm Market goals that Jeanne helps implement is the goal of doing business as a local family farm in conjunction with other local family farms. To that end, the Farm Market is in constant pursuit of the best, freshest local products available. You will be reading more about these area businesses in future issues of "The Scoop".

Jeanne started "peddling vegetables" (as she puts it) years ago as a project to help her children learn science, nutrition and good business practices. Today, her children grown, Jeanne and her husband Gary, operate a blueberry and vegetable farm in Shipman. They sell their produce at farm markets in Lexington and Nellysford.

The Fuzz Buzz

Early Redhaven and Crimson Lady (yellow) Sugar May (white)

Also: cantaloupes, watermelons, green peppers, tomatoes, squash and cucumbers.

Corn will be here around July 10.

~Be sure to pick up your coupon by June 28
for 25% off all salsas July 7-11

Sign up for our mailing list,
and please include your email address.
You can access our website at www.saundersbrothers.com
to find out the latest in availability.

Join us at the annual parade in Lovington on the morning of Friday, the 4th of July,
to celebrate the birth of the United States.

Next Saturday, July 5, at the Farm Market

Dave Miller (on the piano) and Steve Bowling (playing the guitar) will provide our customers with toe-tapping, finger-snapping music from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m..

